Sometimes it rages, rock a little
Even when it's calm, rock a little
Just like the sea, still I rock a little Say it was just like me, still rock a little

Then you knew her, funny little dancer
And you watched her all night long
You were trying to learn from her teachers
One thing that she wanted, she would not be tangled up

Hit it, hit it
It's about time, Lily
Well, I know, Lily
Hit the stage, dancin', hit it

She's home now
She says, "I've gone far beyond that song"
Rock and roll, ballerina
Where else would she go?

He knows his daughter, says
"Where does she live?"
He says, "Oh, up there somewhere"
Then he says, "Go ahead, Lily"

Hit it, hit it
It's about time, Lily
Hit it, well, I know, Lily, hit it
Hit the stage

Lots of them and all one of a kind
But the most important thing was what is on her mind
Pale, pink, satin, worn out in a week
But she loved you the most and you said

"Go ahead, Lily, hit it"
No explanations and I tell you no, you say nothing
That is how songs are written Stories are told, rumors are started, ooh but they still stay

Go ahead, Lily
Hit it, hit it
It's about time, Lily
Hit the stage, dancin', I know
