Dreams reoccur in my solitude
Breaking my heart, injuring my mood
With all of the things that I thought I knew
It was you

Well, the conversation rings in my head

Well, you know me better than I know myself
Will you write this for me?
He says, "No, you write your songs yourself"
That made me stronger, it made me hold on to me

Well, I remember, you caught my eye
It was late September, it was no surprise
He made me better
His songs were soft and tender sometimes

Well, the conversations ring in my head
I remember everything that was said
All those tears that we shared

Well, you know me better than I know myself
Will you write this for me?
He says, "No, you write your songs yourself"
Well, that made me stronger, it made me hold on to me

Conversations ring in my head
I remember everything that we said
All those tears that we shared
Don't call me when you're lonely

You know me better than I know myself
Can you write this for me?
He says, "No, you write your songs yourself"
Well, that made me stronger, it made me hold on to
me

Well, you know me better than I know myself
Can you write this for me?
He says, "No, you write your songs yourself"
And he made me stronger, he made me hold on to me

Well, once more, I'll tell the shadows of my soul to stay back
Everything has changed now and I don't want to go
And nothing you can say can change my mind
Well, once more, I'll tell the shadows of my soul to stay
Everything has changed now and I don't want to go
And nothing you can say can change my mind

No, I don't want to go back
And nothing you can say can change my mind
Oh, I don't want to go back
And nothing you can say can change my mind
Hey, I don't want to go back
And nothing you can say can change my mind
