Can you picture mother earth?
In the palm of your hand
The entire universe
As a tiny grain of sand
And it feels impossible to do
As I can't imagine love without you

Think of drinking every sea
With it's salty waters dry
Sprinting 'round the world three times
Faster than a rocket fly's
And the thought of it you can't pursue
As I can't imagine love without you

Some thoughts just know great news
Not worth the amount of time
Yet others inconceivable
So they never cross your mind

Travel back through life and times
One Atlanta summers night
Add up every single star

Since the day the first was light
How and when they started, I have no clue
As I can't imagine love without you

Yet others inconceivable
So they never cross your mind

Travel back through life and times
One Atlanta summers night
Add up every single star
Since the day the first was light
How and when it started, I have no clue
And the thought of it you can't pursue
Cause it feels impossible to do
As I can't imagine love without
I can't imagine love without, you
