Can you picture mother earth
In the palm of your hand
The entire universe
as a tiny grain of sand
And it feels impossible to do
As I can't imagine love without you

Think of drinking every sea with it's salty waters dry
Sprinting 'round the world three times
Faster than a rocket flies
And the thought of it you can't pursue
As I can't imagine love without you

Some thoughts are just no-brainers
Not worth an ounce of time
Yet others inconceivable
So they never cross your mind

Travel back through life inside
One Atlantis summer's night
Add up every single star

Since the day there first was light.
How and where to start you have no clue
As I can't imagine love without you

Travel back through life inside
One Atlantis summer's night
Add up every single star
Since the day there first was light.
How and where to start you have no clue
And the thought of it you can't pursue
As it feels impossible to do

As I can't imagine love without
I can't imagine love without you.
