"Love Like That"

I remember when I owned everything;
The sun, the moon, and the rain.
My domain;
Stretched all along the astro-plane.
Of cosmic Kansas to L.A.

The universe is a toy
In the mind of a boy.
Life is a movie too...
Staring you, your whole
Family-cast and crew.
A little secret between
God and you.

And one day he whispered,
"Mother's love might seem insane."
It's cause she really knows
Everything.
To bad it takes so long to see what
You've been missing.
Love like that can't be
Measured in any way.
And you know, love like that
Can't be measured in any way.

Love is taken for granted
When you don't understand it;
Since it came so easily.
It must be free- wish I would
Have listened carefully when I
Was (unintelligible) in my
Grandmas tree, when she was Singing, "Mothers love might Seem insane. it's cause she Really knows everything."

To bad it takes so long to reveal
The whole admission. Love like that
Can't be measured in any way.
And you know, love like that can't be
Measured in any way.

Aint it strange how it all makes perfect
Sense?
When your life is the evidence?
She needs to feel- how the love made
You more than real. It struts you up and Fills your cup.

And if your singing "Mothers love might Seem insane-
It's cause she really knows Everything.
Too bad it takes so long to reveal the whole Admission.

Love like that can't be
Measured in any way.
And you know, mothers love might
Seem insane. it's cause she really
Knows everything.

Candy wisdom in the way. In
Your lunch pail in your mind
You'll find-
Tastes like nothing in the world today. and you know love like that can't be measured in any way.

And you know love like that
Can't be measured in any way.

And you know love like that
Can't be measured in any way.

And you know love like that
Can't be measured in any way.

And you know love like that
Can't be measured in any way
