Just like the autumn
When leaves turn brown and fall upon the ground
That's how you left me
You just went cold and everything changed 'round

If I could have that time again
Would we still be friends? Or am I lying?

With everything I've said and done
And every race that I have run
When there is nothing more to say
I could be happy yesterday

With every lie that I've been told
And every dud that I've been sold
I would forget them anyway
I could be happy yesterday

Goodbye forever
You packed your bags and headed out the door
I'm being clever
Seeing if there's more points I can score

And though I'm sneering all the time
I'm dying inside, do you remember?

With everything I've said and done
And every race that I have run
When there is nothing more to say
I could be happy yesterday

With every lie that I've been told
And every dud that I've been sold
I would forget them anyway
I could be happy yesterday

I could be happy, oh, so happy
I could be happy
But it seems that I'm frustrating
All attempts at my elation

With everything I've said and done

And every race that I have run
When there is nothing more to say
I could be happy yesterday

With every lie that I've been told
And every dud that I've been sold
I would forget them anyway
I could be happy yesterday

With everything I've said and done
And every race that I have run
When there is nothing more to say
I could be happy yesterday

With every lie that I've been told
And every dud that I've been sold
I would forget them anyway
I could be happy yesterday

With everything I've said and done
And every race that I have run
When there is nothing more to say
I could be happy yesterday

With every lie that I've been told
And every dud that I've been sold
I would forget them anyway
I could be happy yesterday
