I watch your death you look at me
I see something is dead in your eyes
I watch you fade away you're not fearless I know what's been killing you this only hurts me your wounds flow with bitter sweetness beaten down
I feel you flatline your wounds flow with bitter sweetness
I want to lift you up hold you up you build the guilt your dreams shattered I'm not weakend with fear you distrust my love helpless let me reach this swell of shame pushed away
I fall I can't let you go you're not hopeless
I won't quit separate life from spoken confusion death
I can't let go you're not hopeless
I won't quit separate life from spoken confusion death
your wounds flow with bitter sweetness beaten down
I feel you flatline your wounds flow with bitter
sweetness
I want to life you up hold you up exhausted
I bury the past defeaet is real my wounds deep complacency infects my heart broken down with much sadness I know that you're gone
