go ahead live your life, live your life anyway you please you'll never find peace of mind never find any sanity there'll be no one to blame, there'll be no one to shame
but you
there'll be no other way you're gonna have to face truth when all you are is laid out on the table and you no longer hide the things inside when everything is stripped away will your life be just a waste of time or will you be fine in the blink of an eye everything's gonna fade away you're growing numb to the pain are the lies driving you insane
but you
and you no longer hide the things inside
and you no longer hide the things inside
when everything is stripped away will your life be just a waste
when all you are is laid out on the table
and you no longer hide the things inside
or will you be fine
