You're sending messages transmitted in Morse Code
And I'm decoding as they beat right through your chest
Tell me again if I'm not mistaken
I'll tell you again but the words are changing
Remember when it was a game?
I never wanted anything

We're not changing
So stop asking
We're not changing
No turning back the decision's made

Let it out, let it out
If there's something you're not saying let it out
Let it out, let it out
If there's something on your mind let it out
Let it out, let it out
If there's something you're not saying let it out
It's the way you roll your eyes

You wrote the script before you ever had the cast
And now you're struggling to fit me in the plot
Holding me up to these expectations
She's holding you up but her arms can't take it
Remember when it was a game?
I never wanted anything

We're not changing
So stop asking
We're not changing
No turning back the decision's made

Let it out, let it out
If there's something you're not saying let it out
Let it out, let it out
If there's something on your mind let it out
Let it out, let it out
If there's something you're not saying let it out
It's the way you roll your eyes
