So how's about a game of russian roulette?
With a couple shots of your choice.
The events for the season are over, she said
Im a victim of this disconnection of connection honesty.

So what (kind of) disguise is he?
With really strong words designed from his teeth.
And lovely wet kisses from the queen of the sea.
This is just an overdramatic tragedy.

No more crying, no more tears will be shed.
We're not dying, we're just resting our heads.

When all those people come around,
They'll see why your feet left the ground.
You've got your head up in the clouds.
All you wanted was a little recognition.
You're gonna take this city down.
They say you can't, they know you will.
You're gonna take this city down,
And watch this city drown.

Just forget all the he said she said.
They're all liars, and you're just too naive.
Just remember that i know you know everything,
everything.
Lyrics
What were you thinking when you were down on your knees?
What were you thinking?

No more crying, no more tears will be shed.
We're not dying, we're just resting our heads.

When all those people come around,
They'll see why your feet left the ground.
You've got your head up in the clouds.
All you wanted was a little recognition.
You're gonna take this city down.
They say you can't, they know you will.
You're gonna take this city down,
And watch this city drown.

What were you thinking when you were down on your knees?
