distract me, winter games
I was about to get out the saw and cut a hole in the icy ice all day we slip and slide and fall I hear the wind piling up the leaves all along the rock wall and you, you're cracking jokes and burning wood from last fall now it never snows no more only freezing dirty rain oh no, it never snows but it gets that smell like it might just the same put your cold hands on my head like a blanket around my brain wrap a blanket around my brain yeah

everything you wanted
more than you could handle and the light that surrounded you leaves you in the dark staring at a candle

roll me over, say my name I slept right through the winter games wake me up, nothing's changed

well your helmet, it had no scars we leave our best coats in bars like ice fisherman lose cars
distract me, winter games
I was about to get out the saw
right through to where you are

leaves you in the dark

and the cup that you drank from just leaves you drunk and staring at a candle

roll me over, say my name
I slept right through the winter games the winter games
