"Born into the World"

I was born into the world
In a hospital called ABC
I was born into the world
A friend to every falcon, shark and bee
I lived above a candy store
Behind a massive marble door
I lived above a candy store
Behind a massive marble door

I was born into the world
In a city with volcanoes in the sky
I was born into the world
A friend to every lion, snake and fly
I lived above a flower store
Behind a massive iron door
I lived above a flower store
Behind a massive iron door
In a bright cold room
Where the sun would flood right in

I was born into the world
And my mother made a vow to me:
You were born into the world
To be friend to every eagle, bear and flea
I lived above a jewelry store
Behind a massive plate glass door
I lived above a jewelry store
Behind a massive plate glass door
In a bright cold room
Where the rain would flood right in (breathing)

I was born into the world...

I was born into the world
A friend to every falcon, shark and bee
I was born into the world
To be friend to every eagle, bear and flea
I was born into the world
In a hospital called ABC

I was born in to the world
And my mother made a vow to me
