Looking back in time it seems so clear how life takes away and leaves us drowning in our fear the lost who suffer they have no name at all they try to stand but they always seem to fall.

Right where your standing is where I used to be a million miles away you stare looking back at me sorrow fills you up inside and tears fall like rain try to look with no regret as time fades away.....as time fades away.....

Answers escape me as I wonder about this life day after day I think about choices that I make inside the window to your soul I see through your eyes nothing left to say to you Ive got nothing left to hide and whose to say the lines you read to me were real with all the empty words that you tried to make me feel.....

Did the path you choose turn out to be all you wanted....wanted...wanted...wanted?

As time fades away am I still left here with no answers....answers....answers...?

If I asked you I wonder what would you say?

Right where your standing is where I used to be a million miles away you stare looking back at me sorrow
no regret as time fades away.....as time fades away.....
