(N. Ashford/V. Simpson)

I didn't even say I want you, woman
I didn't even stop to think why I survived you, woman
But you walked into my life like nobody's business
And you changed and rearranged me, you turn me around
And you didn't even ask me
Hey girl, you know you do

I didn't even think when I met you, I'll be your woman
Even only able to get through to you just like a woman
But I seemed so cleverly, somehow you got to me
And now I want you with all my heart And though I didn't want it from the start (from the start)

I'm glad about it
Glad about it woman, woman
Oh, I'm a-glad about it
Glad about it, woman

I told you, "You were wasting your time on me, woman"
And I knew about the others waiting in line to be your woman
Yes, we were such a silly pair, couldn't see what was there
At first, I didn't know you were hanging around
But today I'm so thankful that I found (that I found)

I'm glad about it
Glad about it, woman, oh baby
I'm a-glad about it
Gald about it, woman, oh yeah

Want you to be so proud of me
I want to learn about you
So glad that He looked down on me
Showed me that I cannot live without you

I'm glad about it

Glad about it, woman, oh
I'm a-glad about it
Glad about it, woman, you know
I'm a-glad about it
Glad (sad) about it, woman, oh..
I'm a-glad about it
Glad about it, woman
