You know that you can't hide yourself behind the mask that you've made you Phoney I've found out so go tell someone who really cares you betrayed our Friendship the life long bond was split at the seams we were one in the same Now watch my smile turn into a stare You betrayed yourself you betrayed us all there's nothing left ruins are all That's left after the fall
If there's one thing i've learned in this heartless world you gotta expect
The unexpected
All of the lies I couldn't see now i seek retribution like pouring salt on An open wound my rage burns from within Trust me you said these words I can never forget the fact that I didn't see it coming took me by surprise Behing your facade you hid your shame well the memories will make it hard to Live through all of this shame from the times that were good and even of Times of bad we've through it all now im suffering your final gain can you Honestly think what you,ve done makes it worh the hell you'll have to face Can you honestly say what you've done makes the hell that you'll have to Face
