"The Last Embrace"

Easy is nothing, nothing is near
It used to be my garden but the rules ceased Silence, why is the silence in me?
I fight the need to struggle with it endlessly Within and possibly without
I chase the reason and by the way pursue my doubts Teardrops of night or teardrops of day
When it turns to dust and finally dust your fault I'm leaving
I'll cry the tears for you, oh dad, please let me reach
my Eden

Disappear into thin air,
A new leaf's turned over
Vanish from the world out there,
For the wind got colder
Pleasantly I found the truth
Guiding me back to my roots
Finally it leads me soon to origins where I belong

Please let me know you'll understand, it's not your fault
I'm leaving
I'll cry the tears for you, oh dad, please let me reach
my Eden
Please let me know you'll understand, it's not your fault
I'm leaving
I'll cry the tears for you, oh dad, please let me reach
my Eden

I'll cry the tears for you, oh dad, please let me reach
my Eden
