It's black and white picture
A smile from the past
That tattooed the moments we had

Like a treasured possession
A gift from the gods
Everything is falling apart

You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more

'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain

I know that you're leaving
And nothing stays the same
Broken heart adventures mislaid

Numbed all my feelings
Take away the pain
The hour hand is stealing you away

You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more

'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain

You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more

'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain

'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race

What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain
