Here we are now.
So small pretending feeling free.
And you can take just what you want from me.
And you can climb a thousand stairs.
Keep tearing down the sun but remember we'll soon be leaving.
We'll soon be gone.

Another day slips through my hands
And it's getting cold here where I stand
As I'm trying to seize my disappearing time.

Some will love you.
Some may leave.
And some may own the satisfaction you achieve.
But we'll all be dancing the night away.
All the angels led astray.
Lord forgive us.
What have we done?

Another day slips through my hands
And it's getting cold here where I stand
As I'm trying to seize my disappearing time
I really hope you get your piece your little cure
For your disease but you can't ever stop the fleeing time...

In the glowing dark I'm waiting for that day.
To come.
To arise.
When we're finally setting free.
A million tears of liquid stone.
Breaking down breaking down breaking down.
To smash our pretended world of glass...
To make us whole again.
And all I feel is p a i n

Would like to change so much.
To make a difference.
Get off this comet ride
To live right here right now.
So hard to watch and swallow.

Who's right and who's to follow?
Don't leave me here to fade.
To fall asleep again...
