Heartbreak come, steals the color from my sky
Blue and white, fade to black and gray
Clouds collide, and tears fill up my eyes
Storm winds steal the words I want to pray

But deep inside of me
There is a flame called faith
And though tear drops fall
There is a choice I have made

Chorus
I will dare to dream about tomorrow
I will hold to hope through all of the pain
I will never surrender to the sorrow
No I will be a candle in the rain

So I'll go on a light that's burning in the dark
Reaching out to others all around

And though lightning strikes
And the thunder rolls
I have no doubt God is still in control

Repeat Chorus

I will trust that life is more
Than just what I see before me
And a bright new day is up ahead
Another chapter in the story

Repeat Chorus
