I'm seeing brake lights
That means he's leaving me again
This is like the eighth time
I guess I'll see him in morning
Cause he'll come back, he always does
And then we fight and then we fuss again
Back to the beginning

But we hate to make up every time
But when we do break up the fault is mine
But before we fall out there is something you should know
I hate to see you leave but I love,
to watch you go
Love to watch you go

I'm seein' daylight, and I'm still alone in my bed
Something ain't right, so should I go for him instead
I messed up this time, I always do
And then we fight and then were through again
Back to the beginning

But we hate to make up every time
But when we do break up the fault is mine
But before we fall out there is something you should
know
I hate to see you leave but I love,
to watch you go
Love to watch you go

Whose gonna help me save us, he made us one again
Will he take me back this time
After what I did, he has no idea
Why he just spent one more night here

But we hate to make up every time
But when we do break up the fault is mine
But before we fall out there is something you should
know
I hate to see you leave but I love,
to watch you go
