Never mistake your last prayer for a sight of escape
Never ever mistake
Never you say I am free from the woes of yesterday
You're just leading their way
Into a new day, another to claim, it's too late now
You never get away
Say I belong here today, tomorrow, forever and ever
Until the day I escape

Never ever mistake a sharp pain for heartache
Just pull out the thorn and throw it away
And never let her find her way back
You know that the hardest part of it all's saying no
Just let her go
It's only one rose, but there are plenty of thorns

Never mistake your last prayer for a sight of escape
Never ever mistake
Never you say I am freed from the night by the day
'Cause forever you'll chase
A sun that's running away from horizons
It never loses strength
And always gets away
And when you finally succumb to the night it rises behind you
And you're the one being chased
And you never escape
Never make that mistake
