A blank stare is all that i have received. shared feelings are now nothing. you placed your heart in my hand and i crushed it with a grin. bury me six feet deep with my good intentions. bury my purpose. bury my words they meant nothing. repeated actions proved that i am humain, mistakes made with no one looking. is it wrong? all i have is my silence to hold in my heart. all i have is my silence to hold in my heart. for you. your smile is well received only by my shell. i scream, wil anyone hear? wil anyone care? will it even matter?
