Is seventeen so far away from here?
At twenty one, I live a different life
I never dreamed I could and as I pick up pieces
I can't let go of that old never-ending nightmare

I remember times when skies were gray
Innocence ran through our bones
You and I had much to say
Well, I know you'll take me home again

(I remember times when skies were gray)
Well, I know you'll take me home again
(You and I had much to say)
Well, I know you'll take me home

Last night, those cops came to arrest you
What'd you do this time? Was it far from home?
(Was it far from home?)
Well, I've seen you twice in the last ten months
Now you're gone again, so far from home

I remember times when skies were gray
Innocence ran through our bones
You and I had much to say
I know you'll take me home again

(I remember times when skies were gray)
Well, I know you'll take me home again
(You and I had much to say)
Well, I know you'll take me home

I have found life and took the time
To never fear and sing for death
I'm not a victim, you're not the answer
I can't control my own life

Well, I can't control my own life
Well, I can't control my own life

(We will not break)
(Look out, find, find your faith)
(We will not break)

The earth turns but we don't feel it move
(Look out, find, find your faith)
I've found a better life, I'll promise you

(We will not break)
(Look out, find, find your faith)
(We will not break)
The earth turns but we don't feel it move now
(Look out, find, find your faith)
I've found a better life, I will promise you
