The old man told me by the pool
We watched the carps, the Chinese fools
They're swimming 'round and 'round and 'round
They meet each other without no sound

And Pious told me even more
'Bout stars that shine forever on
The times of Bara, Gish, Louise Brooks
And above all his queen called June

We kissed the fish, we know the signs
They don't get old but have to die
The print you left on Prince's back
A witness of the golden peck

Yes, Pious told me 'bout the stars
Hearts of the desert so bizarre
And goddess June picked up that fish
She smiled, leaned down, then she kissed

The fish it just lay in her hand
She kissed it with her lips so red
The people laughed, the people cheered
They're all dead now - the fish is still here

You kissed the fish, we know the signs
They don't get old but have to die
The print you left on Prince's back
A witness of the golden peck

You kissed the fish, we know the signs
They don't get old but have to die
The print you left on Prince's back
A witness of the golden peck

You kissed the fish, we know the signs
They don't get old but have to die
The print you left on Prince's back
A witness of the golden peck

You kissed the fish, we know the sign

They don't get old but have to die
The print you left on Prince's back
A witness of the golden peck

You kissed the fish, we know the sign
They don't get old but have to die
The print you left on Prince's back
A witness of the golden peck
