can you see these eyes
these eyes so bright day and night they need you are awaiting you quiet days passed me by silent tears who will cry filled with thoughts four you nights are cold without you and slowly comes my night

quiet colors calm my eyes and step by step i understand it is a question of time and wherever you are hiding far away or close to me send my answers to your land out of my darkened hole i will never give up time will never stand still come back home piece of art and embrace my sin

peace will grow in this heart it will never fall apart colours light on canvas white all the portraits start to sing songs of good songs they know all these answers start with if will we redefine the line fight against all these crimes
