Where do you go with all of those scars
They read like a map
They tell you right where you are
Can you still relate?
Do you want to?

What do you see when you turn out the lights?
And you close all the doors
Alone in the night
Can you still escape?
Does it haunt you?

Better watch your back because it's party time
Hold on if you think you're guilty of the crime

Way down, that's where you go
Everything stops and it feels like a show
They're watching now
Do they really want you?

Who do you blame when it all falls apart
And the time that you waste brings you back to the start
Baby this is what you have to go through

No one gets by without any scars
And the truths and the lies can hide who you are Just another face that you can talk to

Better watch your back because it's party time
Hold on if you think you're guilty of the crime

Way down, that's where you go
Everything stops and it feels like a show
They're watching now
Do they really want you?

Way down, that's where you go
Everything stops and it feels like a show
They're watching now
Do they really want you?

Better watch your back because it's party time

Hold on if you think you're guilty of the crime

Way down, that's where you go
Everything stops and it feels like a show
They're watching now
Do they really want you?

Way down, that's where you go
Everything stops and it feels like a show
They're watching now
Do they really want you?

Way down, that's where you go
Everything stops and it feels like a show
They're watching now
Do they really want you?
