I had to catch my breath
When I saw you there across the room
Holdin her hand
I'd have never guessed
That starting over would look so good on you
But here I am
Still believing there might come a day
We'll pick up where we left off

And by the way
Your eyes are dancing
I'll say the chances of that
Are getting slim

And by the way
My hearts still breaking
It's going take it a while
To love again

So many things that I forgot to say
By the way
I should've let you know

All the way's you made me feel alive
I guess it's too late
So I'll just get my coat

And make my way into this breezy night
Give you one last wave
Maybe you'll drop what you're doing
And come over here and say
I'm looking good
And by the way

Your eyes are dancing
I'll say the chances of that

Are getting slim

And by the way

My hearts still breaking

It's going take it a while

To love again

So many things that I forgot to say

By the way

You still look amazing

And I must have been crazy

To let you get away

By the way

If you ever wondered

Still got the same old number

Just in case

I still miss you

And I still love you

By the way

By the way oh
