Those first pink blemishes are the first sign of infection Within hours they blister and the pustules erupt with blood Pain, agony, screaming for mercy, the body begins to seize Choking on blood and cringing in horror, a victim of this disease

The plague is spreading, quarantine the uninfected Clinics full of the diseased and dying, panic takes control
In this hospital room I see them, victims die in blood People in various stages as ripened pustules erupt

The plague is spreading, quarantine the uninfected Clinics full of the diseased and dying, paranoia takes
control
Men, women and children, none are spared weak or strong
Try to stay isolated when I notice a blemish on my arm

[Solo]

I'm working in this clinic and patients keep coming in Bodies are marked up with these blemishes on their skin
Contagious and infectious, how does this thing spread?
Once the pink dots arrive it's not long until you're dead

Mankind has no defense, we each just wait to die White coats are sprayed with blood as fevers running high Clinics overflowing and we are all soon dead Relentless spread of this plague and I am infected
