It was a black night, cat night, hell of a night to be at home alone I headed for a singles bar planned to get stoned a sweet lady smiled, high on a stool, lookin' blue drinkin' wine
I asked for the time she looked at me, I read her life in her eyes and she said:

Take me back to Hollywood that's where dreams come true show me all the magic I used to know
take me back to Hollywood let a star shine through dance me back to heaven with you...

She wore a pink hat, she had eyes of a cat they lied about her age I know I'd seen her face somewhere high on a stage she lit up a king-size cigarette, slowly let out the smoke gave me her coat sat by my side in silk and lace, full of grace when she said:

Take me back to Hollywood...

She gave me an old, so outta sight, black and white photograph started to laugh paid for the drinks and taxi fare, brushed her hair then she said:

Take me back to Hollywood...osv.
