I did not know you
Our lives never touched
'Til the say they gathered
To bid you farewell
And they painted your picture
And as I looked around
I felt I saw you
In the words and the sound
Your talent came flowing
Through the stories they tell
And through the the faces
Of those who loved you so well
Your life gave them a treasure
A piece of themselves
Something to carry
And still serves them well
Just One Life
Just One Life
Just One Life
That is born, and is, and is gone
Just One Life

And I'm so glad to know you

As I know you

Perhaps inside you

You were messed up like me

But then you were whole and strong

And friend in their need

And what you left behind you

And what swept over me

Says that your life's work

Rolls on and on

A piece of eternity

Just One Life

Just One Life

Just One Life

That is born, and is, and is gone

Just One Life

Did you ever have the chance to find out

What life is all about

I did not know you

Our lives never touched

'Til the day we gathered

To say our farewells
