I'm throwing away pictures that I never should have taken in the first place.

And it's cold in my apartment as i'm changing all the colors from the brightest reds too grays.

Well it's three o'clock on monday morning.
I'm just hoping your not seeing his face.

I've been getting calls in these hotel rooms long enough too know that it was him that took my place.

[Chorus]

And I hope this makes you happy now,
That the flame we had is burning out.
And I hope you like your pictures facing down.
As even broken hearts may have there doubts.

And i'm burning all the letters,
Hoping that I might forget her and the bad taste.

That she left when she was leaving me,
Alive but barely breathing, as she walked out of this place.

And you dropped a note and we changed keys.
You changed yourself and I changed me.

But I really didn't see us seeing through this,
But you screamed the bridge and I cried the verse.
And our chorus came out unrehearsed.
And you smiled the whole way through it,
I geuss maybe that's whats worse.

[Chorus]

And I hope this makes you happy now,
That the flame we had is burning out.
And I hope you like your pictures facing down.
As even broken hearts may have there doubts.

And i'm taking all your memories off the shelf,

Cause I don't need you or anybody else.
So take a look at me.
See what you wanna see, when you get home.

Take me home.
I'd rather die than be with you.
Take me home.
You had a problem with the truth.
Take me home.
Because this happens everytime
And I knew it would...
I knew it would.

[Chorus]

And I hope this makes you happy now,
That the flame we had is burning out.
And I hope you like your pictures facing down.
As even broken hearts may have there doubts.

And i'm taking all your memories off the shelf,
Cause I don't need you or anybody else.
So take a look at me.
See what you wanna see, when you get home.
