Tear in two, she lies awake
The moon lights up the room like day
Another night she spends alone
Without his touch her skins is so cold

The blood thats running through her veins
With every beat theres no escape
Lost in everything she trusts,
Still cant seem to get enough

Even though the world she loved,
It wont ever be the way it was
And his heart of stone left hers breaking

Every night she cries and dies a little more each time
Say you love me (you love me)
Nothing left inside
Say you love me
And the silence will set her free

Memories they take her back
Every moment fades to black
Every kiss and every taste
She wishes time would ease the pain

Even though the world she loved,
It wont ever be the way it was
And her heart is weak, her hands are shaking

Every night she cries

And dies a little more each time
Say you love me (you love me)
Say you love me
And the silence will set her free

And every night she cries

I dont know if Ill ever make this right,
Cause I am just so broken by the bitterness of loneliness

And Im so scared of this

I dont know if Ill ever make this right,
Cause I am just so broken by the bitterness of
loneliness
And Im so scared

Even though the world she loved,
It wont ever be the way it was
And his heart of stone left hers breaking

Every night she cries
And dies a little more each time
Say you love me (you love me)
Say you love me
And the silence will set her free

(every night she cries
every night she cries
the silence will set her free)
