I: The Silent Moon

The moon is shining through the windows of this abandoned chapel
In your eyes I can see the pain from the wounds you've tried to hide

Should I have to believe that He exists after what He has planned to us right before our eyes?

And if goodbye is the best word for an ending
And if you say goodbye, I'll never forgive myself

Would you stay here and wipe my tears?
I cannot live this life alone, without you

II: The Dividing Bridge

I can hear the footsteps of those nuns outside They're getting closer, what should we do?

We have to run from this cursed confinement or we'll end up with nothing remains There's a bridge behind that forest Take our children as your lifesavers

Go away, I promise you we will meet again even if this life doesn't let us to Be patient, this is all we have
With love, we can make it real

And I believe that we will meet again in the place we called eternity
Be patient, this is all we have
With love, we can make it real

Run, they're coming from everywhere It seems that they won't stop until they can find your dead body

called eternity

Be patient, this is all we have
With love, we can make it real

We can make it real, only if we can find a way out from this life
We must find a way out from this life

III: The Cleansing

Abandon your false saviors for they are the ones who let this happens

Pray to your Gods, they would never answer your prayers
Bow to your Gods, they would never wake you Pray to your Gods, they would never answer your
prayers
Bow to your Gods, they would never wake you

I can see clearly what is going on This is your fault, you betrayed the redeemer And now, which option will you take when everything seems so vague?

Our day draws near as they've spotted our trace

IV: The Promise

called eternity
Be patient, this is all we have
With love, we can make it real

This I promise you and I won't break it for our children's sake
I know it's hard to fight this life all alone but believe me, this is all we have

This is all we have

What doesn't kill us makes us stronger, yeah, it makes us stronger

I can feel something burns inside my chest and it is killing me
I feel the end is near and we just have to say goodbye

For every blood we have shed, we must take back our love once lost

For every word, for every love, for every life you carved inside my chest

It will rain and our tears will fill this grave with sorrow So we put ourselves in; like those true lovers; we're desperately waiting for the moment where we can live as a perfect family
We will wait here until the dawn call our names

Come back to me
I know that fate had given us an awkward love that we must admit At least, we have some great memories to be told to our children
