The sun arises from the land which was broken down by the flood

We'll build our new bright days here

Never will we live in fear

"They all were mortal, but why did they keep on thinking that life is everything?"

"Truth lies freely for those who have the will to learn, but they have never learned that it is their faith that stained the world above us"

"They should blame themselves for everything that they have done and every blood that they have shed"

We'll take our dead hearts out and win this glorious war Never will we surrender, never will we lose

The sun arises from the land which was broken down
by the flood

We'll build our new bright days here

thinking that life is everything?"

"Truth lies freely for those who have the will to learn, but they have never learned"

The sun arises from the land which was broken down
by the flood

We'll build our new bright days here

Fear not the one who came from the sky, for He is the one who has saved our lives in the name of almighty God

The sun arises from the land which was broken down
by the flood

We'll build our new bright days here

Set sail on an ark built from truth, this is what we deserve
There won't be any bloodshed again or anything to be afraid of We'll take our dead hearts out and win this glorious war
Never will we surrender and never will we lose this gift
