

The 12th Rib "The Unveiling"

This is the beginning of the end
This is the prelude to your nightmares

The empire turns into dusts as we watch the skies fall
And the nation's anthem now becomes a false eulogy
So, what is left to hold on to?

This faith cuts you right through your veins
And it cuts even deeper
What have we done? What have you betrayed?

As we watch the skies fall right before our eyes
This fight seems to be endless
And the world is crashing down again

We bear the inevitable sins
It's our nature to cross the line

There's just not enough time to explain what's really happening now
Now that you gazed into the eye of Horus
Your life has been set, and your death has been said
