we dont need nobody else they've got nothing to say that could make me let go of you pressure builds 'til pressure kills it's a priceless faith that's now a worthless point of view haven't broken that physical addiction to that touch i missed so much so much so withdrawn without what i once thought it was all about you said you got no doubt but now i want you to know the failure of retreating on some brighter day this pain may be repeating but no, i know it never will beaten back we move like snails we crawl into our homes and then become a part of them we coax each other out of our shells just to knife out our insides and chew up each other but i want you to know the failure of retreating
on some brighter day this pain may be repeating but no, i know it never will, it never will brain keeps talking but the body wont listen
i want you to know the failure of retreating
on some brighter day this pain may be repeating but no, i know it never will, it never ever will
