forty years and still seems everything's okay just ask a question that will make it go away you still can't change it with the waving of your hand it comes to mean that everything is surely planned they're sending me a picture of the moon And star-mapped skies for travelers in tune with all that falls beneath us from the sky be steady light, shine bright behind my eyes answer the question:
is it straight or in a line?
or still a spiral not aware of such a sign and with the gravity that seems to pull us down there is awareness to align us with the ground

(chorus)
