Pay as you go
What do you know
About the true cost of a lifestyle
Where time equals money?
I must be bar code dyslexic
'Cause I don't understand
Why a thin line marks the difference
Between a thief and a rich man

Say what you want to make you happy
Nothing comes for free
I want it all
But nothing satisfies
What you don't have, this is you weakness

Alright
Retail therapy
Superstores and pharmacy
That sells goods for the booze
With lines to buy false niceties
And the promise of consumer bliss
Disappointments and credit card debt
And a sense of loss
From being told you can buy happiness

Say what you want to make you happy
Nothing comes for free
I want it all
But nothing satisfies
You don't have, this is your weakness

I'll move away and see how much I care about
All the things I've left behind
You don't have, this is you weakness

(A scream about every 5 seconds from Pennie)

Say what you want to make you happy
Nothing comes for free
I want it all
But nothing satisfies

You don't have, this is your weakness

I'll move away and see how much I care about
All the things I've left behind
You don't have, this is you weakness
