Seems like these walls are down again
That same old cold wind's breathing in, again
I've been afraid like this before
A bottle washed up on your shore, for more

Maybe it's time that I should love someone
Maybe it's time that you should love someone
Maybe this time we both don't need to run, no more, no
more

Rule is always dealer wins
In most games of chance that I have been in Some they hide behind closed doors
As we try to yell the get caught in a war

Maybe it's time that I should love someone
Maybe this time we both don't need to run, no more, no

Maybe it's time that I should love someone
Maybe it's time that you should love someone
more, no more, no
