

The Beltones

"Pleasure To Burn"

Visit "Pleasure To Burn" on MotoLyrics.com

You try to live your life,
Being someone that you're not,
Different lives for different places.
You try to speak your mind,
Making comments as if I care what you think.
So go away, and waste away to nothing.
I said, alright, never knowing this was how you were going to be.
Cause you were young and superficial,
And I'm getting old so please don't question me.
I can't believe that I could be occupied,
With someone just like you.
And it's no big surprise,
You were with other guys,
When I was just with you.
So go away, and waste away to nothing.
I said, alright, never knowing this was how you were going to be.
Cause you were young and superficial,
And I'm getting old so please don't question me.
And you don't care when I struggle with my life,
But you'll be there when you're wanting something,
When you're needing something.
I broke my phone,
You broke my trust,
Wasn't even worth it,
Now your life gets hard.
You let your looks go down,
With your character,
You let them go so far.
I said, alright, never knowing this was how you were going to be.
Cause you were young and superficial,
And I'm getting old so please don't question me.
I said, alright, never knowing this was how you were going to be.
Cause you were young and superficial,
And I'm getting old so please don't question me.

