You take your make-up off, prepare yourself for another night of staring at the ceiling wishing you could fall asleep. Another day has passed. No better than the last. As tears come to your eyes you cry
"There must be something more."

And you try so hard to explain away
The reasons for your loneliness. If only you could find someone who wouldn't walk away.

He sees you there. He's heard your prayer.
Don't run away. You'll see someday that He loves you more than you could ever dream. So much more than anything.

You're slowly breaking down. It took so long, you were so strong. Too many scars and broken hearts you've tried to hide away.
But now the time has come to fight the urge to turn and run. And when you feel all hope is gone He'll be there
'til the end.

He sees you there. He's heard your prayer.
Don't run away. You'll see someday that He loves you more than you could ever dream. So much more than anything.

All the broken hearts and all the shattered parts of the life you knew, hold on to the thing that lasts forever.

He sees you there. He's heard your prayer.
Don't run away.
He loves you more than you could ever dream. So much more than anything.

He loves you more.
He loves you more
Than anything
Yes, He loves you more.
My Jesus loves you more Than anything
