well im watching the dragons as they make another claim

he used to be a friend of mine, i called him by his name

well theres nothing you can say to nirvana when its packed up in a syringe we'll call up your mama and bus in all your friends well im watching the dragons

as they slither out of sight

and i wonder who'll be sleeping alone tonight beth lost her sister, they came and they took her away and there aint enough pills in the world and nothing i can say

so i tell her i love her and that shes a friend and each time i leave her, i wonder if i'll see her again

then i look in the mirror the dragon has many forms i wonder if hes coming for me because i have been forewarned well im wathing the dragons
