A woman is a flame, a woman is a wild thing
The flicker in her eyes will never fade
The things you love about her most can never be contained
Ooooh... A woman is a flame
A woman is a rock, a woman is a river
Steady and strong until she slips away
Her kiss is like an ocean in a single drop of rain
Ooooh... a woman is a flame
When you think you understand her
Like the weather she can change
Shell break your heart and then she'll steal your breath
away
A woman is a flame
Giving all she can, and asking for nothing
She holds the world together with her hands You'd be a fool for judging her just by looking at her face
Ohhh... a woman is a flame
When you think you understand her
Like the weather she can change
Shell break your heart and then she'll steal your breath
away
Oh a woman is a flame
A woman is a flame
A woman is a wild thing
The flicker in her eyes will never fade
