"Lost In Space"

Lost In Space Into a place A bubble drifting Where planets shift and The moon's erased Its features lift in the glare But I'm the stuff Of Happy endings Though mostly bluff Belief suspending But close enough For just pretending to care When I'm not even there And I'm pretending to care Gone, but I don't know where Who keeps the pace And clears the rubble Well, she's the face And I'm the double And, Lost In Space, Fills up the bubble with air Like I'm not even there By just pretending to care Gone, but I don't know where You split like a cell The line from its parallel And then cannot tell So baby, beware I'm just pretending to care Like I'm not even there Gone, but I don't know where Gone, but I don't know where Gone, but I don't know where
