Juliet

I get on my knees
Speaking in tongues
Of washed out sun and
Perfect clarity
Well I get so delirious
I think my sides will split
Standing on the sidewalk
Sometimes it's with him

I don't think I'll be happy anyway
Just scratching out my name
And everything's so lucid
And so creepy
Since K got over me
Since K got over me

All my senses shot
My hands are fixed
I'm pretty tired of making lists
It's just this emptiness
I can't chase it away
And when the evening paints the streets
When the evening paints the streets
It's like walking on a trampoline

I don't think I'll be happy anyway
Just scratching out my name
But everything's so vivid
And so creepy
Since K got over me
Since K got over me

There's a hole inside my skull
With warm air blowing in
Standing on the sidewalk
Where do I begin?

I don't think I'll be happy anymore
I guess I closed that door
But every night a strange geometry
Since K got over me

Since K got over me
