See the vapours fading
As they stare into the night
Every Time
It's getting harder
To be buttoned up so tight
Don't do anything to us, today
(You're only flesh and bone, you'll really never know)
There's nothing left to take away
(You're only flesh and bone, you'll really never know)
I know the crash is coming
Cause I smell the fuel in the morning
I hear the engines stop
But I'll find my my own way down
I hear the sleepers waking
As they stare into the sky
All our lives
The rivets breaking
As we struggle up so high
Don't do anything to us, today
(You're only flesh and bone, you'll really never know)
There's no-one left who wants to stay
(You're only flesh and bone, you'll really never know)
I know the crash is coming
Cause I smell the fuel in the morning
I hear the engines stop

But I'll find my my own way down
I see the takers taking
And we live it all again
Every time a little closer
To the truth without the pain
Don't do anything to us, today
(You're only flesh and bone, you'll really never know)
There's no-one left to play the game
(You're only flesh and bone, you'll really never know)
I know the crash is coming
Cause I smell the fuel in the morning
I hear the engines stop
But I'll find my my own way down
(You really never know)
I know the crash is coming

Cause I smell the fuel in the morning
I hear the engines stop
But I'll find my my own way down
I know the crash is coming
Cause I smell the fuel in the morning
I know the crash is coming
Cause I smell the fuel in the morning
Theres nothing left to take
