Yesterday with eyes away the breifness of a moment
As in a blinding flash of light the world came remade Vauge my life, A distant shadow filtered through my mind
And dreamed my lovers kiss subdued the emptiness inside

I watch a thousand ships go by
From the cliffs abouve the helpless tide

I raise my chin to the god within
As to carry fear with a failing grin
And blizzard rage fills every page
Fills every breath and every taste

I raise my chin to the god within
As to carry fear with a failing grin
And blizzard rage fills every page
Fills every breath and every taste Within

Pretending nothing's to take the place of our dissapearing words
Silence where the water flows and where our actions blur
So angels kiss the brows and lips and pull the strings
inside
Waiting for the firelight to bring tomorrow home

I watch a thousand ships go by
From the cliffs abouve the raging tide

I raise my chin to the god within
As to carry fear with a failing grin
And blizzard rage fills every page
Fills every breath and every taste

I raise my chin to the god within
As to carry fear with a failing grin
And blizzard rage fills every page
Fills every breath and every taste Within

(Barely audible)

I raise my chin to the god within
As to carry fear with a failing grin
And blizzard rage fills every page
Fills every breath and every taste

I raise my chin to the god within
As to carry fear with a failing grin
And blizzard rage fills every page
Fills every breath and every taste Within
