

McLaren Malcolm"Algernon's Simply Awfully Good At Algebra"

Visit "Algernon's Simply Awfully Good At Algebra" on MotoLyrics.com

written by: Malcolm McLaren(lm)/Dave Stewart(m)

INTRODUCING MISS NDEA

You must have met a friend of mine called Algie
That's his name
He dines out at the Carlton all the week
He's an awfully clever scholar
He's beautiful at science
And his algebra is simply magnifique

Of course, he don't know much about the world and girls and all
But his mathematics nobody can beat
If you want to know how much you owe
He'll tell you like a shot
He's a simply useful sort of chap to meet

And if he meets that lady,
He calculates just what she'd like to be
He adds on several winters plus a summer and a spring
And multiplies the blooming lot by three

Cause Algie's simply awfully good at algebra!

He's really awfully smart
He knows everything by heart
You'll ask him out to dinner, if you'll just take my advice
It's then his power for seeing things becomes awfully nice

Cause Algie's simply awfully good at Algebra

Visit McLaren Malcolm page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.