Nothing more to do
Nothing left to give
Nothing more in you

Nothing else to have or hold
Nothing left
But time to go
Time to go

Years go by
Didn't really say that much at all
And moments just fly
Didn't ever really touch at all

Weeks always run down
Didn't really get that close at all
And days, days fall out
Didn't ever really know at all

And then we're here in a room
Too clean and too bright
She stares at you for an hour
You stare into the light

For one last hour in the room
So mean and so white
I stare at her in this room
As she stares into the night

Nothing more to do
Nothing left to ask
Nothing more of you

In his eyes as we turn no eternity of life
In his eyes as we turn no infinity of why
In his eyes as we turn no beautiful goodbye
In his eyes as we turn nothing but tears
In his eyes as we turn nothing but tears

[Incomprehensible]

I couldn't understand too much of what was being said
In a matter of minutes, peacefully so slow
I had to think to breathe, my heart burst
We moved in silence really slowly away from the world
And we drove, as we drove a strange silence
That moment nothing will ever be the same
Nothing will ever be the same, nothing will ever be the same

Days fall out
Weeks always run down
Moments just fly
Weeks go by

And then we're here in a room
I stare at you for an hour

For one last hour in the room
So mean and so white
You stare at me in this room
As I stare into the night

Nothing more from you

Nothing else to need or know
There's nothing left at all
