I walked along the road today and saw myself in the tired face and a thousand more look back at me I could almost feel the unity

And the sun rose high above the trees and the birds were singing over me but beneath my feet I felt the sting that was the earth remembering

Lay down, lay down your weapons boy
Right now, right now you should've changed the world
Under it all, you're not so tough
Everyone, everyone just wants to fall in love

And I used to think we're just the same from a different town and with different names Do you remember what we said?
"We'll never change," oh did we forget?

Lay down, lay down your weapons boy
Right now, right now you should've changed the world
Under it all, you're not so tough
Everyone, everyone just wants to fall in love

And I walked along to the edge of town and there I threw my burdens down Looking up, at last I found You're never loved if you protect yourself

Lay down, lay down your weapons boy
Right now, right now
Under it all, you're not so tough
Everyone, everyone just wants to fall, to fall in love

Lay down, lay down your weapons boy

Right now, right now you should've changed the world
Under it all, you're not so tough
Everyone, every one of us, just wants to fall

Lay down, lay down your weapons boy
Lay down, lay down your weapons boy
